

Organization

1. Module 8

I'm not one for organization, so I just did the basic making of folders for each of the modules.

Modules 2-9 have their own folders which hold each aspect that needed to be turned in. I left one or two files out of any folder and just in the GitHub area because they were used for multiple modules and I didn't want to clutter up the code by having to change the name for each module they were a part of. It's not much, but the less complicated the better. Isn't organization meant to make things easier for yourself?
